Bill to keep political parties out of RTI sent to Parliament panel

NEW DELHI, Sept 5: In a surprise move, Government today referred a bill which seeks to keep political parties out of the ambit of the transparency law, to a standing committee of Parliament. Minister of State for Personnel V Narayanasamy, who piloted the RTI (Amendment) Bill, 2013 in the Lok Sabha last month, informed the House that in a bid to hold wider consultations, the Government is recommending that the bill be referred to the Standing Committee on Law and Personnel. Several members from opposition supported the decision. The amendment bill is also aimed at negating a Central Information Commission (CIC) order which said political parties were public authorities and should come under RTI Act ambit.(PTI)
