

Single window, time-bound approval for film shooting in India

NEW DELHI, July 31:

Movie-makers seeking to shoot films in India will soon get faster and hassle-free permissions as the I&B ministry is creating a single window mechanism to grant such approvals online in a time bound manner.

Officials said that as per the present system, film-makers especially those from other countries have to seek approvals from a plethora of local, state and central agencies which made it difficult for them to come to India.

"There are a multiplicity of agencies which are engaged in this task of granting various clearances at different levels in government," I&B secretary Bimal Julka said today at a workshop held to discuss the single window clearance system for films.

"The attempt is to simplify, rationalise procedures and making it simpler for foreign productions, foreign producers to come to India and shooting in India," he added.

As part of the mechanism under which online shooting permissions to film-makers can be provided in a time bound manner, the I&B ministry is working to functionalise a detailed set of 'Standard Operating Procedures'.

There will be specific timelines as per which requests for shooting will be processed by various ministries or state government departments. The timelines for permissions from various central ministries in the SOP range from around five to 45 days while they are still being worked out for departments in state and local level.

Officials said that state and central ministries were presently being consulted before the entire process is concretised. The I&B ministry already has held a round of consultations with key ministries like Defence, tourism, Culture, Civil Aviation and others. (PTI)

Coal scam

CBI awaiting files from Coal Ministry

NEW DELHI, July 31:

At least five crucial files related to allotment of coal blocks during 2006-09 have not been received by CBI which has again communicated to the Coal Ministry to make them available as soon as possible.

CBI sources said despite being given the specifics of the files they are yet to be furnished to the agency to expedite the probe in the coal allocation scam.

The agency has so far registered 13 cases related to allotment of coal blocks during the period 2006-09 for alleged misrepresentation of facts by the beneficiaries while applying of the blocks.

The sources said they are planning to register more cases in connection with its preliminary enquiry which relates to alleged irregularities in the allocation of coal blocks during the period.

The Ministry had recently informed a Parliamentary committee that it is trying to locate lost and missing files on coal block allocation in the wake of Supreme Court slamming the Centre for not helping CBI with documents in its probe.

The sources in CBI said they had received a letter from Coal Secretary S K Srivastava addressed to the Director CBI seeking details of the files which it requires for its probe.

They said they would again be giving details of the files soon to the Ministry.

The agency is facing another problem with regards to its separate enquiry in the coal blocks allocated through Joint Venture routes as 19 of the 20 state governments it approached have not given their consent to probe the irregularities.

In its status report filed on March 8 before the Supreme Court, the CBI had said that the coal blocks allocation during 2006-09 was done without verifying the credentials of companies which allegedly misrepresented facts about themselves and no rationale was given by the Coal Ministry in giving coal blocks to them.
