NEW DELHI: Dec 1

One of India’s neighbours had embraced terrorism and was training, funding and abetting terrorists in the country, Vice President Venkaiah Naidu said today.

Addressing troops of the paramilitary security force and his constituents on its 52nd Raising Day, Mr Naidu said his country would not remain silent over any intrusion into its land.

“India’s many initiatives to have good relations with its neighbours are also being marred by some people who are trying to use religion and creating divisions among different communities,” he said.

“The danger of terrorism and its ‘evil consequences’ are being felt across the globe,” he said.

In statement to PTI, the Vice President said, advocating respect for all religions, “This is because our tradition is one family (world is one family) and also to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist, to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist from the prism of any religion and a terrorist is a terrorist, he said.

Naidu added that he wanted the enemy to notice that India had never cast an evil eye on any nation or neighbour.

Addressing troops of the paramilitary security force and his constituents on its 52nd Raising Day, Mr Naidu said his country would not remain silent over any intrusion into its land.

“India’s many initiatives to have good relations with its neighbours are also being marred by some people who are trying to use religion and creating divisions among different communities,” he said.

“The danger of terrorism and its ‘evil consequences’ are being felt across the globe,” he said.

In statement to PTI, the Vice President said, advocating respect for all religions, “This is because our tradition is one family (world is one family) and also to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist, to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist from the prism of any religion and a terrorist is a terrorist, he said.

Naidu added that he wanted the enemy to notice that India had never cast an evil eye on any nation or neighbour.

NEW DELHI: Dec 1

One of India’s neighbours had embraced terrorism and was training, funding and abetting terrorists in the country, Vice President Venkaiah Naidu said today.

Addressing troops of the paramilitary security force and his constituents on its 52nd Raising Day, Mr Naidu said his country would not remain silent over any intrusion into its land.

“India’s many initiatives to have good relations with its neighbours are also being marred by some people who are trying to use religion and creating divisions among different communities,” he said.

“The danger of terrorism and its ‘evil consequences’ are being felt across the globe,” he said.

In statement to PTI, the Vice President said, advocating respect for all religions, “This is because our tradition is one family (world is one family) and also to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist, to tell the country and the world that India does not see a terrorist from the prism of any religion and a terrorist is a terrorist, he said.

Naidu added that he wanted the enemy to notice that India had never cast an evil eye on any nation or neighbour.