

Russia would like to see normalisation of India-China relations

NEW DELHI, Feb 6: Russia on Monday accused the US of "actively" exploiting the "contradictions" between India and China to its advantage and asserted Moscow and New Delhi accumulated mutual trust and confidence based on decades-old ties that would help the two sides to deal with the current geopolitical turbulence.

very serious impediments to that, a very serious border problem between the two countries. We had a border problem with China, an armed conflict with the Chinese at some stage of the problem, it took us around 40 years to negotiate but ultimately this is the only way to find a solution," he said.

"I am not going to suggest what India or China should do... This is entirely a bilateral matter between India and China and we don't interfere with that.

"But the sooner there is a normalisation between the two countries, the better for the whole world. We will do the utmost to facilitate (that) if our efforts are needed," Alipov said.

Explaining his comments on India-Russia ties coming under "stress", the envoy pointed out the impact of Western sanctions on trade and economic engagement between the two sides.

Alipov said Russia wants to diversify its overall cooperation with India and the ties between the two countries are not directed against anyone.

On Russia's overall ties with India, he said, "Internationally, we have always been on the same page, again something very contrasting with the US approach to India."

"Unlike them (the US), we don't need to explain to each other and the world that close partnership between us was not possible in the past for some reason," he said. (PTI)
