DB sets aside judgment of Writ Court quashing selection process of JEs, SIs argued by the counsel for appellants that the writ petition was heard only for the limited purpose of granting interim relief as well as for the purpose of consideration of admission of the writ petition, and that the appellants had never understood that the matter was being heard for the purpose of final consideration.

writ petition was admitted to final hearing and taken up for final disposal, yet, the fact of the matter is that at no point of time counsel for appellants-writ respondents had made a statement that the appellants-writ respondents did not want to file reply," the DB observed.

Entire State land to be included in 'negative list' to prevent registration

However, as per the sources, an option will be kept open to entertain people's complaints if they feel that their private land has wrongly been included as the State land. The wrong entries will be removed from software after if the people succeed in establishing their claim over the land, they said.

the poor but influential persons who have encroached the Government land for their next four generations will not be spared. While going ahead with the anti-encroachment drive, sources pointed out, the need was felt for developing fool-proof mechanism to ensure that such a drive was not required in future if there is no further encroachment on the State land.

Thousands waiting for months to get DL smart cards from RTOs due to unavailability of printing material

According to the rules, DL smart cards are dispatched within a fortnight but now due to shortage of printing material, customers have been waiting for months together to get the same. Vikrant Gupta of Gandhi Nagar said he had cleared the driving license test but even after two months, he had not received his DL smart card.

completely and for last two three months, most of RTOs are facing acute shortage of printing material including smart cards," they added. Sources said such a situation has arisen due to delay in tendering for printing material by the Transport Department due to non-availability of funds as Finance Department failed to provide the Transport Department required funds for tendering.
